

license number : ABC-123456

The most common way to check if a specific string (like a license number) exists in a PDF file is to use a programming language like Python with a dedicated PDF library to extract the text and then search the extracted text for the number.